"When choosing a provider of the CFP® exam prep coursework, I decided on Boston University. The primary reason was the ability to work at my own pace at any time day or night. A secondary reason was that it is a great value. The format was easy to follow, covered the necessary material, and provided the necessary support on the few times questions came up. I just got the results of my CFP® exam and I was in the 51 percent who passed on the first attempt. I made the right choice relying on Boston University. Thank you."

The Boston University Program in FINANCIAL PLANNING—ONLINE

“I enjoyed the online course offered by Boston University. Most importantly, it allowed me to progress at my own pace. I completed the course work in about eight months and, along with a CFP® test prep course, it prepared me to pass the CFP® exam on the first try.”
— Larry Rosenblatt, Rosenblatt Advisors, LLC

ONLINE CURRICULUM

CFP Board-Registered Program Curriculum

Introduction to Financial Planning
This course provides a comprehensive examination of the general principles of financial planning, professional conduct and regulation, and education planning—topics that constitute 30 percent of the principle knowledge topics tested on the CFP® Certification Examination. The course introduces the financial planning process and teaches students how to work with clients to set goals and assess risk tolerance. Learn how to process and analyze information, construct personal financial statements, develop debt management plans, recommend financing strategies, and understand the basic components of a written comprehensive financial plan. The course also covers the regulatory environment, time value of money, and core economic concepts.

Risk Management
This course provides students with an understanding of risk management and the tools and techniques available to minimize exposures to risk. You will learn how to conduct an insurance needs analysis for clients as well as how to evaluate insurance contracts for life, disability, long-term care, and health insurance. The course also covers how insurance rates are developed, what types of contracts are available, how to read insurance proposals, and how life insurance is used in financial planning. Students also learn about property and casualty insurance—including homeowners’, liability, and auto insurance. Other topics include group life- and health-insurance plans, business uses of insurance, and annuities.

Investments
This course explores the securities market, sources of information, risk/return, debt and equities, stocks, bonds, options, futures, and security analysis, and culminates in portfolio construction and analysis. You will learn how to evaluate different asset classes for different investment objectives, and determine their suitability for investors considering investment goals, time horizons, risk tolerance, and tax situations. Quantitative investment concepts, investment theories and strategies, and asset pricing models are also examined.

Tax Planning
Participants in this course study taxation for individuals, sole proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations, as well as the tax aspects of investments, insurance, annuities, and retirement planning. You will be able to identify the likely tax consequences of personal and business financial activities and select appropriate and lawful tax-minimizing tactics and strategies.

Retirement Planning and Employee Benefits
This course teaches you how to conduct a retirement needs analysis for individuals and to recognize the key factors that affect retirement plan selection for business owners. You will learn to evaluate and compare the characteristics of various retirement plans and recommend which plan is appropriate in a given situation. The course covers tax-deferred retirement plans, IRAs, nonqualified plans, Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, distribution strategies, taxation of distributions, and regulatory considerations.

Estate Planning
This course provides an introduction to federal gift, estate, and generation-skipping transfer taxes and the many planning techniques used to minimize the impact of these taxes on transfers of wealth. It also explores the income-tax effects of gifts and bequests, with particular attention to the limitations on income-shifting to family members. The nontax aspects of estate planning—including the estate planning process, property ownership, planning for incapacity, and planning for business owners—are examined, as are the need for estate planning documents for individuals, spouses, and unmarried couples. The course stresses the need for balancing tax and non-tax considerations in creating successful estate plans.

Capstone Course in Financial Planning
This course integrates financial planning topics learned in the previous courses and demonstrates how to apply this knowledge to the development of a comprehensive financial plan. Students will learn how to construct a plan according to CFP Board’s Financial Planning Practice Standards and client objectives. Instructors will guide students through the online course material, quizzes, exercises, and assignments via participation in discussion boards. For the final project, students will prepare and orally present (via taped videos) a comprehensive financial plan to the faculty.
